About RISI

Join RISI's team of economists, engineers and editors at the 24th North American Forest Products Conference in San Diego, California for this valuable networking and learning opportunity! This year's conference will explore whether a stronger industry will emerge from the current global challenges.

In addition to the invaluable on-site networking opportunities, we've recently launched a new, complimentary service that enables RISI conference attendees to connect with each other, securely and confidentially, prior to the event. Attendees receive an email invitation to use RISI Connect as soon as they register and pay their conference fee.
